

Estonia Quarterly Review Q3/2020

Estonian economy has shown relative resilience to the COVID-19 crisis.

The output decline has been one of the lowest in Eurozone during the first half of 2020, with a 3.3% yoy GDP decline in 2020H1.

According to our latest forecast, the gross domestic product is expected to decline by 5.5% in 2020 and then reverse to growth of 4.5% in 2021. Currently, the economic performance will mostly be determined by the spread of the coronavirus and the success of the preventative measures.

The labour market impact has thus far been lower than expected, largely due to the Governments' crisis supportive measures for employers and the overall economy.

The general government budget deficit reached 3.8% of GDP in September 2020, largely driven by the coronavirus pandemic (this compares to a balanced budget a year ago).

The tax revenue was in fact 2.8% higher in September 2020 compared to a year ago and 80.2% of the total supplementary budget revenue was collected during the first nine months of 2020.

The forecast of the general governments nominal budget deficit for 2020 is 6.6% of GDP and 6.7% of GDP in 2021.

Estonia's credit ratings: S&P AA-, Moody's A1, Fitch AA-, all stable.
